This will necessitate the party getting underway a half hour earlier at 1 p. m. The party will continue with all age groups up through the fifth grade from all over the county being entertained.

Serving with Chairman Cook are Alfred Hanson who is again acting as secretary-treasurer of the group and Clement Blaine, James Post and Roy Milnes. To close the evening dried cakes and coffee were served in the home making room. Serving on committee were Mrs. Erwin Wales, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Dan Babbitt, Mrs. Alfred Sorenson, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Bernard Hall.

The P. T. A. Bake Sale to be held November 21st is in charge of Mrs. Glen Fenton and Mrs. Dan Babbitt.

Deer Hunters To Invade Northland Friday

Archery License Sales Up This Fall

Early returns of fees from sales of bow and arrow deer licenses have out earlier reports that archers have been in greater abundance this year than ever before, the conservation department reports.

Partial return show license sales to archers increased to 12,500 from 6,600 sold through the same period last year. Total sales last year were about 22,000 licenses, resident and non-resident.

This year, dealers expected to sell more than 30,000 licenses to archers. Many dealers have re-ordered both resident and non-resident license books; some supplies ran out before the season got under way October 1.

Tabulation of small game license sales to date also shows some increase, though final reports probably will not be filled for several weeks.

Hospital Advisory Board Meets

Fourteen members of the Advisory Board for the new Grayling Mercy Hospital representing the communities of Grayling, Roscommon, Kalkaska and Lewistown met at the Nurses Home last Wednesday evening.

The three chief subjects of discussion were the amount of money to be raised by the communities involved, the matter in which the funds will be raised and the table of organization.

As yet, the amount that the communities must raise is still unknown and the method of raising what is needed has still not definitely been set on.

However, a table of organization has been set up with chairman being named for a publicity committee, a finance committee, building plans committee and a building construction committee. These chairman along with the General Chairman and co-chairman and secretary-treasurer will comprise the board of governors of the new hospital.

All who were appointed to head these five committees have been notified by mail and upon their acceptance of the appointments, the table of organization will be published. Another meeting of the group will be held in the near future.

Mac's Drug Store Robbed

Sometime during the early morning hours of Tuesday, Mac's Drug Store on Michigan Avenue was broken into and robbed of about $85 in cash.

Entrance was made into the building by the breaking in of a rear door leading to the alley. The door was barred but the thief shouldered the door open, pulling the screws holding the bar brackets from the wall. The door was not marred in any way.

The money was taken from a comparatively new electric cash register which was badly smashed up as the robber broke in to it. Currency and larger coins were taken, but dimes, nickels and pennies were left.

The robbery was investigated by State Police and Sheriff William Golinick. The investigating officers could find no clues on the scene of the robbery, but intend to pursue their investigation. This breaking and entering again seemed to conform with the rash of other robberies which has plagued Grayling all fall.

Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

An open house reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Knecht to celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mathewson. It was a complete surprise as Mrs. Knecht, mother of Mrs. Mathewson had invited the couple to come for dinner and when they walked in they were greeted by relatives and friends. A lovely silver coffee service was presented to the happy couple by their children. Many other lovely gifts and cards were received and a carved silver musical jewel chest, brought from Japan by Stanley Mathewson was filled with many silver dollars.

The refreshment table was centered with a large wedding cake surrounded by miniature articles to represent each year of married life. The cake was traced on either side by candles in silver candle holders. After the first piece of cake was cut by Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson, Betty Jeanne Parrish cut and served the cake. She was assisted by Mary Jane Jorgenson and Jackie Mathewson who served coffee and tea. A corsage of yellow roses and rust colored mums and a boutonniere of a white rose were presented to her mother and father by Betty Jeanne.

Many relatives and friends dropped in during the afternoon. Those present for the occasion from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jorgenson and Mary Jo and Stephan "Bud" Jorgenson from Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Don Parrish from Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vallad from Kalkaska, and Mrs. Bernard Fowler from Vanderbilt.

Expect 500,000 Hunters Afield Saturday Morning

Michigan's annual 16-day deer season underway at 6 a. m. Saturday, November 15, and conservation department game men expect close to half a million hunters afield before the season ends November 30.

Hunters may harvest 250,000 deer from the present one million size herd, which would be the biggest kill ever registered during this century, but still below what game men say is necessary for best herd and range improvement.

Last year, about average during the last 10 years, 369,000 hunters took 104,000.

Herd health is poor in some areas of the state, notably in northern lower peninsula, where overbreeding has killed much range and lack of food has stunted the animals. Fawn production rates and checks of deer killed illegally and by accident during the year show upper peninsula deer more healthy than those of the northern lower peninsula and southern lower peninsula deer most healthy of all.

The special three-day "any deer" portion at the end of the northern lower peninsula season was constructed to check malnutrition in that area. Most of the increase in hunter numbers and kill is expected in that area during those three days.

Weather factors again will play an important role in the annual drama; blizzards could cut seriously into hunter success. Many road crews, however, have pledged special snow clearing efforts in event of heavy storms during the season.

License fees are the same as last year: $2.50 for residents, $3.50 for nonresidents, $3.50 for camp permits.

And archers who failed to get a deer during bow and arrow season may buy a firearms license and hunt deer during the firearm season.

All state police posts and the conservation department will combine forces again this year to provide an emergency message service for Michigan's hunter army. As in the past, hunters may register at either state police posts or department headquarters buildings so families can contact them in event of emergency at home.

Hunters should tell their families where they will register before leaving home and also where they expect to hunt. Messages are limited to family deaths or serious illnesses.

Recent changes in deer hunting laws in Michigan should benefit Michigan's forests as well as its deer herd, according to Lester E. Bell, extension specialist in forestry at Michigan State College.

It will be legal to take any deer on the last three days of the open season in the area north of Highway M-20 in the Lower peninsula. On November 28, 29 and 30, in the area north of M-20, a licensed hunter who has not killed a buck between November 15 and 27 may shoot one buck, doe or fawn.

This new law is designed to temporarily reduce the deer herd, but in the long run should lead to a better and stronger herd.

High concentrations of deer in many areas have been detrimental to good forest practice. Bell is in full sympathy with maintaining a large deer herd in the state and knows the value of such a source. He believes the only real road to success in the long run is to manage both our deer herd and our forests so that both will succeed.

Deer are dependent upon the forest for food (browse and mast) and for cover. Our civilization is dependent upon our forests for a source of lumber, raw wood and cellulose products.

During the summer, deer roam the forests of the state, browsing on many different species of trees and shrubs, eating a little moss, some grass, some mast. In general, they do little damage to the forest during this period. In the winter months, however, the picture changes. Heavy snows cover up their normal food supply and make it difficult for the deer to travel in the uplands. The deer are driven in large numbers into wintering areas known as "deer yards" and usually in cedar swamps.

In the yards, deer feed on most any browse available. They prefer white cedar, red maple and dogwood. In many "deer yard" areas where white cedar is the predominant species, there are no young trees left. The only trees are large mature trees that have been browsed up as high as the deer can reach and no longer furnish winter food. Some people have suggested that this presents no problem; since the old cedar trees are mature we should cut them down and allow new trees to grow in their place. They point out that cedar is a prolific "seed" and that the lush new growth will furnish ample food. Some even suggest that we plant new stands of cedar just for deer food foresters report.

All this sounds fine but it just doesn't work, stresses the MSC forester. Cedar will reproduce fairly well if the reproduction is not browsed. We can plant seedlings and grow a stand if the young trees are not molested; but here is where the shoe pinches, he emphasizes. The deer will not leave the young growth alone. When it reaches above the snow line, the deer browse it off. They even paw back the snow and eat the small seedlings, stem and all.

The only satisfactory method of reproducing a crop of winter food in the deer yarding areas of Michigan is to reduce the deer herd long enough to allow regeneration. The new supply of winter browse will let us gradually increase our carrying capacity to maintain an even larger deer herd than today. Sportsmen and foresters both face this situation, Bell insists, and may have to "forgo our cake today for more of it in the future."

There is no known knock-out blow in prospect. But arrival of the seals with the candle-lit cross will give Grayling area families an opening to help Crawford County score against tuberculosis next year. "Buy Christmas Seals" is a simple way to put it. "Buy generously," is even better.

City Manager Max Davenport spent Monday in Cadillac on business.

The Grayling Kiwanis Club needs used toys now for repair for Christmas giving to the underprivileged. Take your toys to the shoproom at the Grayling High School for repair. If you haven't transportation, phone 2231 and they will be picked up.

Chairman of the meeting was Max Carlyle of Kalkaska. Among the others present were General Representative A. L. Mitten and State Representative Robert C. Grosvenor of Lansing and District Representative Louis Houseman of Gaylord.

THE CENTRAL IDEA

Who's on the Railroad Safety Team?

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

- RAILROAD SCIENTISTS at New York Central's two great laboratories test the strength and all-weather dependability of everything from rails to electric relays. This machine tests the ability of rubber for air-brake hose to survive far tougher treatment than it ever gets in actual use.
- MEN OUT ON THE LINE, in the yards, signal towers, shops, are safety-trained. And working with them are thousands of safety devices. Here, a signal maintainer checks an Automatic Train Stop that would apply the brakes at a warning signal, even if there were no engineer in the cab!
- YOU'RE ON THE TEAM. All highway grade crossings are clearly marked. When you see one ahead, slow down and roll down your window. If you hear a train whistle or warning bell, see lights flash or gates descending... stop well back. Help New York Central guard your safety.
- YOUR YOUNGSTERS, TOO, should learn never to play on railroad tracks. Tracks are the world's safest place for train travelers... but NOT for playing children! So teach them to watch trains well back from the right of way. Help keep SAFETY THE "CENTRAL IDEA!"

His Finest Hour

In our opinion President Harry S. Truman had his finest hour as this country's chief executive in defeat which slammed his party last Wednesday. His acceptance of the landslide for Dwight D. Eisenhower, as a mandate of the over sixty million Americans who voted, is a different attitude than that which he has shown on many other occasions.

President Truman's offer of the use of the Presidential plane to President-elect Eisenhower to fly to Korea was a fine gesture. His invitation to talk over the world peace situation as soon as possible to further America's striving towards this goal, is at least, again in our opinion, a fine ending to a Presidential career that has been most controversial.

President Truman, we believe, has finally reached that state of mind which he should have had when he became President. The office is the greatest office of the greatest country on earth and as such should humble a man by its huge responsibilities—not make him feel as President Truman apparently has judging by some of his past actions.

It is our feeling that Harry S. Truman came of Presidential age just as he is about to leave the office. As America's second living ex-President he can still be of great service to our country. We hope he continues to show humbleness of spirit and will forget party politics in favor of progress for our country. R. W. S.

Somerset, Penna., Daily American: "It is time that the line should be drawn between Americans who believe in individual liberty and those who believe in human slavery; those who believe in freedom and those who believe in governmental controls, those who follow the precepts of the Founding Fathers and those whose eyes turn towards Moscow."

It Takes A HEAP OF HAULING
...to make a Home!

IF YOU'VE BUILT a new home recently—or are in the midst of doing so now—you know how dependent building is on motor transport.

From the moment the big excavating shovel arrives at the vacant lot astride a low-bed truck-trailer to dig the hole for your basement, it's a steady procession of trucks of one kind or another until the house is ready for occupancy.

Cement blocks, sand, steel, lumber, roofing, brick, plumbing, hardware, paint—everything that goes into the building of your home has to get to the site in motor trucks.

Then, when you arrive at the point where you're ready to move in, you call on motor transport again to transport your household furnishings for you.

If you've got it, a truck brought it!
